Montréal offers one of the greatest varieties of urban sites and sets in North America. Founded 343 years ago by the French, the city has kept various architectural elements from most periods of its history. The St-Laurent river, Mont-Royal, the 21st-century downtown, are major components in its evolution.

Film producers will find everything they need on the spot: equipment, skilled technicians and specialists of all kinds, studios, workshops, laboratories, editing and cutting rooms, just name it. And you will be seduced by the cosmopolitan atmosphere, scores of gastronomic restaurants, efficient hotels and, above all, friendly and hospitable people.

The City's CIDEM-Cinéma was created specifically to handle production problems. Don't hesitate! Give yourself the leading role! Choose Montréal! For Information: CIDEM-Cinéma

4X HORIZONTAL 4X VERTICAL

by François Miron
16mm, col., 9'25"

One time the integer serves as vertical index, the other time as horizontal index, in Cantor's construction this is very clear. As for the function $\text{Blue}(\text{diag}^n)$, it involves using one integer on two different levels — first, as a blue program index number; and second, as an input parameter.. One possible interpretation on a 4×4 level is given by my film.
